

WONDROUS CELEBRATION ON NEWS OF ARMISTICE HUNS HAVE CAPITULATED

Terms of Surrender Complete in Detail; Read to Congress

Washington, Nov. 11.—The terms of the German armistice are as complete as the great Foch, surrounded by every great leader of the allies could possibly make them. President Wilson went before a joint session of congress at 1 o'clock today, and read the terms to them. Amid scenes of unparalleled enthusiasm, he recited the terms of the armistice. Never before in the history of the world have more complete terms of surrender been demanded than those which today were read to the congress of the United States, as those imposed by the allied countries on the common foe, the government of Germany.

The President said, "The war thus comes to an end. They having accepted the terms of the great allied commander, which makes it impossible for any German government to renew the conflict.

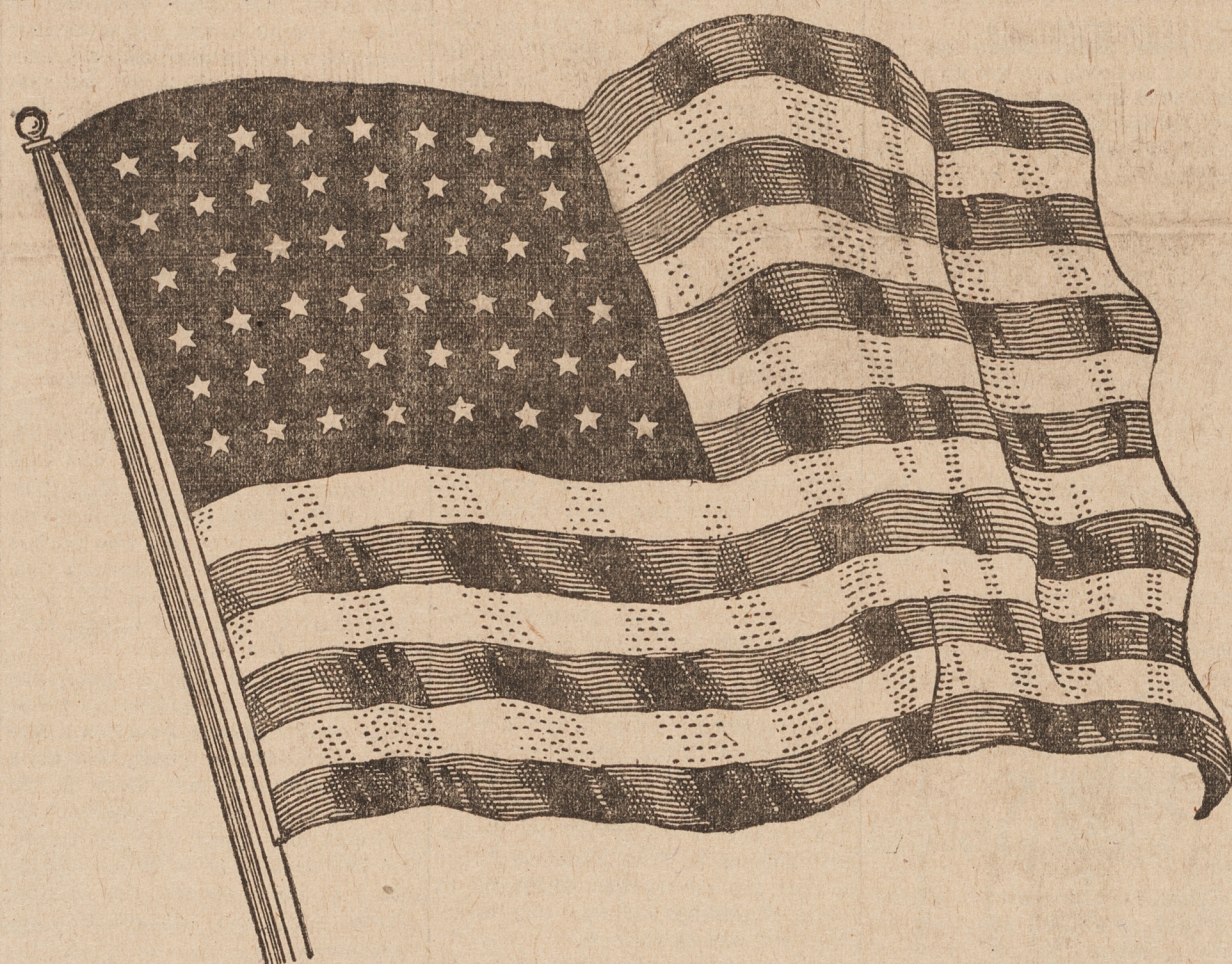

"The arbitrary power of the military caste of Germany has been rendered void and absolutely destroyed. The President in his clear and emphatic language, however, made it clear that only by humane treatment could the German people be shown the virtue of democracy.

Revolution stalks abroad, he stated and added: "The question being raised throughout the country today is 'With what government in Germany is the peace being made?' This great question precipitated by the revolution in Germany cannot be answered, but the officials of the allied nations, together with those of the United States are confident that the result will be satisfactory.

"Time and time again the grave senators and representatives broke into loud applause. Although the immediate evacuation of French territories that had been captured, and the surrender of all foreign soil was expected, the fact that the terms demanded that the German troops retire beyond the Rhine was the greatest surprise ever given to so august a body. For a moment an air almost of incredibility hung over the assemblage. Then the great applause broke forth, and continued for fully ten minutes. The president stood with a smile on his face, waiting for it to subside before renewing the recital of the terms.

"Germany has been crushed, beaten to her knees, and humiliated beyond the wildest dream of Americans, Frenchmen, Britishers, Italians, Belgians, or any other of the allied armies. Her sacrifice of life has been in vain. We stand today, the victors over militarism, the givers of peace to the world."

Lieut. Warren E. Eaton Gets His First Boche

With the news of the signing of the armistice, comes word that Lieut. Warren E. Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Eaton of this city, and now an aviator with the Expeditionary Forces, has brought down his first Boche 'plane.

He landed his prize some time ago but has not been officially credited with it until very recently. The following cablegram was received from his brother Melvin, also with the Expeditionary Forces:

"Visited Warren. He officially downed one Boche. Mel."

In the following letter, dated October 21st, he tells of the fight:

"It was October 10th, and we were to go out on an 11:45 protection patrol for bombers. We had a mixup so only Irving and myself were the only two that got together. We picked up the bombers and after they had finished their mission fooled around as we still had some time and also were not sure that all of them had come out. Being only two of us we were flying pretty high, about 4,200 meters. About 12:50 I saw seven Fokkers below us about 1,200 meters and signaled to Irving who had not seen them. He dove first and I followed him, diving on the same Boche which was the last one on the right hand side. As soon as the Boche saw me coming he tried to pull

Spectacular Parade; Celebration Never To Be Forgotten

The gigantic parade which started promptly at 10 o'clock Monday morning was the most spectacular, in many respects, that has ever been witnessed here. The authorities estimated that it was fully two miles in length, and it took an hour and ten minutes to pass a given point.

Forming at the junction of Main and Broad streets, the procession marched up North Broad. Marshal Payne and Mayor Linn H. Babcock, both on horseback, headed the line. Following them came Johnson's band, playing national airs and anthems. The Civil war veterans came next, carrying an immense flag. To quote one of these venerable gentlemen: "I can't remember being as happy as this, even when Lee surrendered."

The Home Defense Corps of Norwich were next in line. They were all in uniform, and made a splendid showing. Then came the mothers, wives and sisters of men in the service, carrying their service flags or a small flag. They were followed by the workers and active members of the Red Cross, under the Red Cross banner, flying side by side with Old Glory.

SHERBURNE RESPONDS MAGNIFICENTLY TO THE CALL; MORE THAN DOUBLE UNITED WAR WORK QUOTA

On Sunday evening, at the meeting in the Sherburne opera house, that village set a precedent that the rest of Chenango county will have to hustle to keep up with.

After the addresses of the evening had been made by the Hon. James P. Hill and Sergt. A. R. Baldock, late of the Pri's infantry, amid the finest burst of patriotic enthusiasm ever witnessed in Chenango county, Sherburne then and there doubled the quota already reported at the meeting. Sherburne reported her in the drive for the war charities.

The amount of the quota, $4,000, was subscribed within 27 minutes after the drive for subscriptions opened, and well within an hour the amount was doubled.

Sergt. Baldock made a wonderful impression on his audience. From beginning to end of his address he held them entranced with his tales of the trenches, and the great and noble sacrifices of the boys who WERE fighting our battles. It was no marvel to those who heard him that Sherburne reported her in the drive for the war charities.
