

Practical military field engineering is now being taught to the students of Cornell University by the aid of sand-boxes, where trenches and barricades are built in miniature, under expert supervision.

Photo Bain News Service.

Even the great mercantile establishments are cooperating with the government in the teaching of military tactics. Here is a portion of the employees of B. Altman's going thru a morning routine of exercises on the roof of their building.

Photo Greeley Service

On the day when the President was to address Congress and call for a declaration of a state of war, a host of pacifists descended upon the Capital City to lend moral force to their stand against the action. Here is shown a group which took possession of the Capitol steps, before being dispersed by the police.

Photo Paul Thompson.

Out at Hills th
zens
every S morning
the q
public at the
for drill
der the vision o
lar army
Photo Gree

Up in the air One of the workmen on the new 325 foot stacks of the New York Steam Power plant, swinging from a derrick high above the approach to the Brooklyn Bridge. In the background is the neighborly Woolworth tower.

Photo International Film Service.

No Easter edition is complete without some representation of Easter lilies. Here is a field of them, photographed at Bermuda, where they were blossoming for the American market.

Photo Central News Service

Departing under unpublished orders for "Somev York." The 71st, the first of the Gotham regimer for war duty, is shown on the march up Madison A were sent to various points upstate to guard the ac

Photo J

Submarine-hunting along the French coast to sea, then sent forth with an observer middle view shows a distant U-boat just extreme right the balloon is seen at some c server sends news of his discoveries bac