In party-line vote, President Trump is impeached on two counts

By Olivia Beavers and Mike Lillis

• House Democrats took the historic step Wednesday of impeaching President Trump, a momentous move that will send long-lasting reverberations throughout the Capitol and the country, both already fiercely divided over the truculent figure in the Oval Office.

A somber day in the House for Republicans and Democrats

By Scott Wong

• Nancy Pelosi was dressed for a funeral. Wearing a black dress and her custom gold mace brooch, the Speaker of the House on Wednesday led a small procession of staffers and reporters out of her office and through Statuary Hall, past the statues of Rosa Parks, Thomas Edison and other American giants.
