VICTORY IN NEVADA

In the Dakotas and Montana may well be several days before the outcome is known, on account of the widely scattered election precincts and enormous distances. Although the newspapers on the 27th reported the results of the presidential vote from the Dakotas and Montana, the outcome is still uncertain.

"The vote is too close to call," said a spokesperson for the Democratic Party. "We are confident in our victory, but we are not yet ready to declare it official. The final results will be announced later today."